FOREWORD

This Award Booklet, presented for the use of those interested in Cooperative Education, lists all awards made under the authority of H.E.A., Title VIII, as amended.

Cooperative Education is so called because it is dependent upon the cooperation of employer and educator in combining to provide, first, a superior total educational program for students. It also provides a means by which students earn money to help pay the costs of attending college. The essential ingredient is that the work program is integrated with formal academic study to become a superior total learning program.

Under Title VIII, of the Higher Education Act, funds are authorized to be granted "to institutions of higher education for the planning, establishment, expansion, or carrying out by such institutions of programs of cooperative education that alternate periods of academic study with periods of related public or private employment that will not only afford students the opportunity to earn through employment funds required toward continuing and completing their education but will, so far as practicable, give them work experience related to their academic or occupational objective." Two hundred and Seventy-six grants were awarded this year for these purposes. Funds are also authorized for the training of persons involved in the administration of cooperative education programs, for projects demonstrating or exploring the feasibility or value of innovative methods of cooperative education, or...for research into methods of improving, developing, or promoting the use of cooperative education programs in institutions of higher education.

Cooperative education is a social invention which is now having its day. It is an innovative way of preparing youth to work in the world in which they will live. It is supported by the Administration, the Congress, the Office of Education and by distinguished educators as a propitious weld of academic and real world learning.

To those who have experienced it first hand, the advantages of cooperative education have been proven and the feared disadvantages dispelled. Persuasive evidence exists that cooperative education is good for the students, good for the college, good for the employer, and good for the larger society. Because support for cooperative education is today a matter of approved public policy and its merits well-founded, we are pleased to provide this information about the Federal program.

LEGISLATIVE HIGHLIGHTS OF THE COOPERATIVE EDUCATION PROGRAM

National support for cooperative education came in February, 1967, when President Lyndon Johnson recommended to The Congress a change in the College Work-Study Program which would "for the first time permit us to support Cooperative Education Projects."

Earlier, however, Title III of the Higher Education Act of 1965, included, and still includes, cooperative education as one of the options for developing institutions with Title III grants. Comparatively little use was made of this authorization, however, since the developing institutions had more pressing needs for other expenditures to improve their academic programs and facilities.

On October 1, 1968, Congress amended both the Higher Education Act of 1965 and the Vocational Education Act of 1963. Under the VEA, funds are allocated to the States to support cooperative vocational education for part-time students, principally in the high schools. The amended Higher Education Act authorized funds to enable the Commissioner of Education to make grants to > "institutions of higher education for the planning, establishment, expansion, or carrying out by such institutions of programs of cooperative education that alternate periods of full-time academic study with periods of full-time public or private employment that will not only afford students the opportunity to earn through employment funds required toward continuing and completing their education but will, so far as practicable, give them work experience related to their academic or occupational objective."

A second section of part D of Title IV authorized funds via grants or contracts to institutions of higher education or to other non-profit organizations for the > "training of persons in the planning, establishment, administration, or coordination of programs of cooperative education, or for research into methods of improving, developing, or promoting the use of cooperative education programs in institutions of higher education."

This section of Title IV-D was amended in 1972 to include "projects demonstrating or exploring the feasibility or value of innovative methods of cooperative education."

The 1976 Amendments (Public Law 94-482) made several significant changes in the program. First, the words "full-time" were removed, thus permitting Federal support for parallel programs for part-time students. In addition, the period of eligibility for Federal support was increased from three to five years, and the maximum amount which may be awarded to a single institution for administrative costs was increased from three to five years, and the maximum amount which may be awarded to a single institution for administrative costs was increased from $75,000 to $175,000. Finally, Congress approved priority funding criteria for programs showing a high receptivity for the placement of students in appropriate jobs, and for institutional commitment to support the program after the termination of Federal assistance.

Enacted October 12, 1976, the HEA amendments, Public Law 94-482, expanded the authorization of Federal support for Cooperative Education. Formerly Part D of Title IV of the HEA, cooperative education now is authorized by Title VIII of the Act. This action removes Co-op from the context of student financial assistance (Title IV) and places it in a separate title. The Act, as amended, is on pages 75 and 76 of this Award Booklet.

Prior to the amendment of the Act, the chairman of the House Committee on Education reported: "Few of the programs carried on under present law aroused quite the degree of support in the Committee that was and is enjoyed by the Cooperative Education program, currently authorized by Part D of Title IV. A number of witnesses appeared in the hearings and spoke enthusiastically about the theory and practice of Cooperative Education. The Committee responded in a similar vein...increasing its authorization, modernizing the language, and finally taking it out of Title IV and giving it the designation and status vacated by the appeal of Title VIII." (House Report No. 94-1086, May 4, 1976)

From its beginning in 1906 at the University of Cincinnati, Cooperative Education has grown to encompass programs, planned or underway, in over a thousand institutions of higher education in every state of the Union. In the course of this expansion, it has demonstrated its very real benefits to undergraduates and their parents, to the administrators and faculty of institutions of higher education, to the employers of Co-op students, and to society at large. Research initiated by Congress and completed in 1977 further showed that the direct return to the Federal government from taxes on student earnings far exceeded the modest support provided by the government through Title VIII.

Information presented in this booklet supplements & up-dates that presented in an earlier publication covering the years 1970-1976.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION RESEARCH PROGRAMS
TITLE VIII, HEA FISCAL YEAR 1977

Dr. Ralph A. Ranald
The City University of New York
Graduate School and University Center
33 West 42nd Street
New York, New York 10036
(212) 874-2699

To test the hypothesis that Cooperative Education students in the City University have a total success rate, which exceeds that of the generality of the City University undergraduate student population as a whole. Further, to see if it is possible to document the assertion that minority students, and especially such students from a Spanish or other bilingual/bicultural background, measurably benefit very greatly from carefully-planned Co-operative Education programs.

Professor Barbara R. Heller
Graduate School & University Center
City University of New York
Center for Advanced Study in Education
33 West 42nd Street
New York, New York 10036
(212) 636-3519

To survey the condition of education with respect to sex differences in an important area - cooperative education, as defined and implemented under Title VIII of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended. The broad intent is to improve the capacity-building of cooperative education programs by increasing awareness of cultural (i.e., sexual) employer expectations as they relate to the satisfaction of all participants.

Professor Joan Wertheim
Pratt Institute
Brooklyn, New York 11205
(212) 636-3548

To explore the differential impact of co-op experience on women; What are the effects of co-op participation upon a college woman's commitment to a career, her occupational interests, her values, her personal growth, and the stability of and satisfaction with her career choices.

(c) Appropriations under this title shall not be available for the payment of compensation of students for employment by employers under arrangements pursuant to this part. 20 USC 1133

GRANTS FOR PROGRAMS OF COOPERATIVE EDUCATION

Sec. 802. (a) From the sums appropriated pursuant to subsection (a) of section 801, and for the purposes set forth therein, the Commissioner is authorized to make grants to institutions of higher education that have applied therefor in accordance with subsection (b) of this section, in amounts not in excess of $175,000 to any one such institution for any fiscal year, and to combinitions of such institutions (that have so applied) in amounts not to exceed an amount equal to the product of $125,000 times the number of institutions participating in such combination, for any fiscal year.

(b) Each application for a grant authorized by subsection (a) of this section shall be filed with the Commissioner at such time or times as he may prescribe and shall—
(1) set forth programs or activities for which a grant is authorized under this section;
(2) specify the portion or portions of such programs or activities which will be performed by a nonprofit organization or institution other than the applicant and the compensation to be paid for such performance;

(3) provide that the applicant will expend during such fiscal year for the purpose of such program or activity not less than was expended for such purpose during the previous fiscal year;

(4) provide that the applicant shall make such reports and keep such records as are essential to insure that the applicant's programs or activities are conducted in accordance with the provisions of this part;

(5) provide for such fiscal control and fund accounting procedures as may be necessary to assure proper disbursement of, and accounting for, Federal funds paid to the applicant under this part; and

(6) include such other information as is essential to carry out the provisions of this part.

(c) No institution of higher education may receive, individually or as a participant in a combination of such institutions, grants under this section for more than five fiscal years. No such institution or combination thereof may receive—

(1) a grant in excess of 100 per centum of the total administrative cost for the first of such fiscal years;

(2) a grant in excess of 90 per centum of such cost for the second of such years;

(3) a grant in excess of 80 per centum of such cost for the third of such years;

(4) a grant in excess of 60 per centum of such cost for the fourth of such years; or

(5) a grant in excess of 30 per centum of such cost for the fifth of such years.

Any provision of law of the contrary notwithstanding, the Commissioner shall not waive the provisions of this subsection.

(d) In approving applications under this section, the Commissioner shall give special consideration to applications from institutions of higher education for programs which show the greatest promise of success because of—

(1) the extent to which programs in the academic discipline with respect to which the application is made have had a favorable reception by employers,

(2) the commitment of the institution of higher education to cooperative education as demonstrated by the plans which such institution had made to continue the program after the termination of Federal financial assistance, and
